Recap

Mar Vista Art Walk

Mar Vista community members turned out en masse for the March 2 art walk. This quarter's theme was "VOICES," inspired by the influence of the spoken word on all other arts. There was an enhanced music program, including an outdoor Power Voice Station with professional spoken word artists accompanied by musicians, interactive mic stations for visitor self-expression and other sidewalk spoken word/musical engagement.

Mark your calendars for the next Mar Vista Art Walks this year: June 1, September 7 and December 7.

CicLAvia: Culver City Meets Venice

Mayor Garcetti joined community leaders and thousands of Angelenos on March 26 to celebrate some of L.A.'s iconic corridors as vibrant, people-filled places. Angelenos explored six miles of open streets, showing off their style, visiting local businesses and taking part in various art and cultural experiences.

Mark your calendars for June 11! CicLAvia: Glendale Meets Atwater Village is next!

Great Streets Raises $15K for Healthy Neighborhood Markets

Thanks to everyone who turned out to shop at Whole Foods during our 5% fundraising campaign. Thanks to your purchases, Whole Foods is contributing $15,775.05 to Great Streets's partnership with Food Policy Council to bring healthy neighborhood groceries to under-served communities.

Reminder!

People St Application Is Live

Apply now for a pedestrian plaza, parklet or bike corral.

LADOT has re-opened applications to its award-winning People St program, which supports communities that want to DIY their vision for a Great Street.

Plazas (like the one above) transform excess roadway into pedestrian spaces, while parklets and bike corrals convert street parking into public seating areas and bike parking respectively.

Applications opened Thursday, April 13. Plaza applications will be due no later than May 30, but you can apply for a parklet or bike corral anytime and LADOT will review applications on a rolling basis.
